

S-2 D A Z E I T I BOL A/G
person

BOL Bk
American Indian

dark hair

bronzish skin

Objects around
arms

firelight

nighttime

"Wise man"
spiritual
leader

person
objects
emanations?

body
voice speak
motions
smells

person
attr: butts
emanations?
set aside
designed arranged constructed sacred

person
subjects?
emanations?
worship
honor
instruction
initiation
separated off
Occultic

person
topics
emanations?
speaking
guiding instilling
indoctrinating
continuing passing on following retain

Asl Bk
Cometery

mystical
objects
emanations?

people
monuments

mystical
attributes
emanations?

secluded
quiet
apart
circled nighttime
controlled
limited profound spiritual

mystical
subjects
emanations?

life
deeds
people
philosophy
religion
society
behavior
formulae

mystical
topics
emanations?

WOL BLK
HST slogan

mystical
topics
emanations?
explanations
feelings
perceptions discussions
diagrams
celestial ~~revelation~~ observation lifecycle

monument
 objects
 emanations?

Structure

monument
 attributes
 emanations?

fall
 solid rough carved stony set aside

monument
 Subjects
 emanations?
 confusion break

monument
 Subjects
 emanations?
 symbolic ~~surface~~
 too much break

Asa Bl
 Kennedy's
 eternal flame

monument
 Subjects
 emanations?
 commemoration remembrance
 symbology focusing time anchor
 centerpiece

monument
 topics
 emanations?
 focus
 learning
 remembrance
 reverence
 respect memorial
 tribute
 example
 role model

Site is situated in an area away from by itself, is somewhat secluded, and has many rows a pattern of similar objects. One object is central in import, + serve as a monument, the focus of much spiritual and/or mystical interest. A somewhat esoteric teaching is present, with the idea of small groups being instructed as to elements, involving philosophy, religion, society, behavior, etc. ~~though people generally don't frequent this location.~~ This "monument" has been set aside as a commemoration or memorial, perhaps for a specific individual who seems in some sense to have been a mystical or spiritual "leader."

Who's buried in Grant's Tomb? (?)

Baltimore's Ghostly Tour

Dark of night and an old burying ground are the stuff of which spine-tingling adventures are made. Add to that the grave of one of the world's best-known writers of morbid tales, and you have the potential for a scary Halloween experience.

The first two ingredients can be found anywhere. But only in Baltimore can you find the grave of Edgar Allan Poe.

It was a rainy October day in 1849 when Poe was laid to rest in a back corner of the old Westminster Burying Ground in Baltimore. He had stopped in the city on his way from Richmond to New York and had been found lying in a doorway on Lombard Street. He lingered in delirium for five days, dying on October 7 at the age of 40.

In 1875 the schoolchildren of Baltimore raised money for a monument to Poe, and at that time his remains were moved to a more prominent spot, just inside the cemetery gate at the corner of Fayette and Greene Streets. The monument will be rededicated during ceremonies on November 17.

Two activities take place before that, though. Beginning at 1:30 a.m. on October 27, Baltimore Rent-a-Tour offers an In-

Perhaps the most famous person buried at Westminster was Edgar Allan Poe. His grave (below) lies just inside the gate at the corner of Fayette and Greene Streets.

Westminster Burying Ground, in downtown Baltimore, holds the graves of many notable figures from the city's history. Photographs: Kim McFae somniac Tour that stops in the cemetery. Participants will visit the catacombs under Westminster Hall, which was once used as a church, and have a glass of sherry during a poetry reading of "Annabel Lee" at Poe's grave.

Then, on October 31, the Westminster Preservation Trust, Inc., which takes care of the cemetery and Westminster Hall, ushers in Halloween with an open house. The program is geared toward children, and refreshments are served.

A walk through the grounds surrounding Westminster Hall almost seems like a stroll through Baltimore's history. The city's first mayor, as well as three later ones, is buried here. So, too, are 15 generals of the American Revolution and the War of 1812.

The most popular grave, though, is that of Poe. There's a certain mystique about the man who wrote such deep, dark tales. What was he doing in Baltimore when he died? The question has never been satisfactorily answered. And who, since 1949, has left a half-empty bottle of cognac and three red roses on his grave every January 19, the date of his birth?

For information about guided tours of the Westminster Burying Ground, contact Westminster Preservation Trust, Inc., 500 West Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201; or telephone (301) 528-2070.

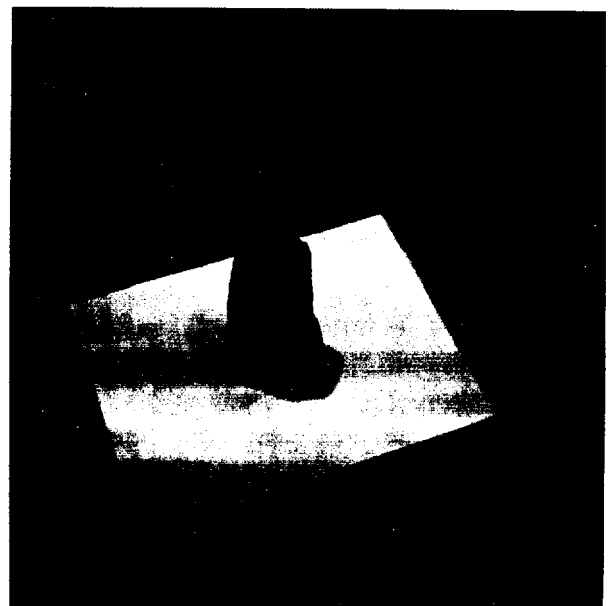

For information about the Insomniac Tour, contact Baltimore Rent-a-Tour, 3414 Philips Drive, Baltimore, Maryland 21208; or telephone (301) 653-2998.

Sonics

Wah
w 00

402 & k
Washington

00W

urn

end 1120